Festival Scope

Book Adaptation Rights Market for 2019 has been edited using the information assembled by June 21th, 2019. The Venice Production Bridge may not be held responsible for possible errors.

The Venice Production Bridge team is proud to announce that, in 2019, we are welcoming more international publishers than last year and who will be pitching their new titles as well as to present their complete catalogues, as opposed to other events dedicated to publishing within the context of Film Festivals that focus on a single book or volume.

Producers will be offered a worldwide tour of 25 publishing companies coming from France, Germany, Greece, Japan, Italy, Spain, Sweden, The Netherlands, the UK and the USA. The uniqueness of this 3-day event consists not only in the organization of 1-to-1 meetings between the publishers and the producers, but also in enabling them to develop their network in a productive and welcoming setting.

With the Book Adaptation Rights Market, the Venice Production Bridge renews its vocation to foster the development and production of international and European projects across a wide range of audiovisual forms. We warmly welcome you to this 4th edition and hope that it will bring many beneficial encounters.

ABRAMS / THE OVERLOOK PRESS

COMPANY PROFILE

The Overlook Press, founded by Peter Mayer in 1971 and acquired by ABRAMS in 2018, continues its decades-long tradition of distinguished publishing as, now, the adult fiction imprint at ABRAMS. Overlook is the publisher of an eclectic list of titles, including the #1 New York Times bestseller True Grit by Charles Portis, acclaimed bestselling author Mark Helprin's Paris in the Present Tense, and fantasy classic, the Gormenghast novels, by Mervyn Peake. The Overlook Press publishes bold and relevant literary fiction; exceptional literature in translation; selected mainstream fiction; a curated list of genre fiction, including mystery, thriller, and fantasy; and drama. For more than 60 years, ABRAMS has remained dedicated to a single objective—the practice of exceptional bookmaking. An artisanal publisher at heart, ABRAMS creates and distributes brilliantly designed, visually illustrated books with the highest production values in the adult, young adult, and children's trade markets—covetable books, skillfully crafted with a strong editorial vision, each an object of art in its own right. ABRAMS is the publisher of the perennial #1 New York Times bestselling series Diary of a Wimpy Kid, which now has more than 150 million copies in print, as well as the recent New York Times bestsellers The Good Neighbor and The Soprano Sessions, from its text-based adult imprints.

PAST MAIN PUBLICATIONS

The Overlook Press has published many titles that are the basis for major films and television series, including:

The Gormenghast novels by Mervyn Peake (1946-59; reissued 1995). The classic epic gothic fantasy, currently being adapted for television by Fremantle US, Neil Gaiman, Akiva Goldsman, and Toby Whithouse.

True Grit by Charles Portis (1968, reissued 2003). The basis for two classic films and a #1 New York Times bestseller upon release of the acclaimed Coen Brothers 2010 film.

The Company by Robert Littell (2002). The sweeping history of the CIA during the Cold War, adapted for a limited television series by TNT and Scott Free, with Chris O'Donnell, Alfred Molina, and Michael Keaton.

Legends by Robert Littell (2005). The acclaimed espionage thriller about an undercover FBI agent whose ability to disappear into his various identities, or "legends", for each case leads him to question his sanity. Adapted for television by TNT, starring Sean Bean.

Caging Skies by Christine Leunens (2008, 2019, first US publication). The acclaimed novel sold in 22 countries and inspiration for the Fox Searchlight film Jojo Rabbit, written and directed by Taika Waititi, starring Roman Griffin Davis, Thomasin McKenzie, Taika Waititi, Rebel Wilson, Stephen Merchant, Alfie Allen, Sam Rockwell, and Scarlett Johansson.

The Spirit Photographer by Jon Michael Varese (2018). A richly atmospheric Southern Gothic historical ghost story about a con-artist photographer who captures a real ghost with his camera, inspired by Reconstruction-era spirit photographer William Mumler.

Starling Days by Rowan Hisayo Buchanan (2020). On their first date, Mina told Oscar she was bisexual, vegetarian, and on meds. He married her anyhow. After Mina's suicide attempt, they move to London, encountering new challenges in the form of a young woman named Phoebe. A compelling novel about love, mythology, mental illness, and the times we need to seek out milder psychological climates.

The Bell in the Lake by Lars Mytting (2020). A sweeping historical novel and #1 bestseller in Norway about 19-year-old Astrid Henke, desperate to escape her isolated village with its mystical church bells that ring on their own in times of danger. Rights sold in 12 countries.

Warrior Butterflies by Ava Homa (2020). Debut novel by Kurdish-Canadian writer set in Iran and inspired by the life of Iranian Kurdish activist Farzad Kamangar, for fans of The Kite Runner and Half of a Yellow Sun. WEBSITE

ACTES SUD

COMPANY PROFILE

Actes Sud is an independent literary Publishing House established in Arles, Provence for 40 years. It was founded by Hubert Nyssen and his wife Christine Le Boeuf. With a strong emphasis on literary fiction, Actes Sud has established a solid reputation in publishing foreign fiction but also with a graphic identity (with a very specific format of the book, its choice of paper and its illustrated covers). Over the years, Actes Sud has also spectacularly developed its French list, becoming a key player in French editorial landscape, managing to impose highly ambitious young writers such as Laurent Gaudé (Prix Goncourt 2004), Mathias Enard (Prix Décembre 2008, Prix du Livre Inter 2009, Prix Goncourt des Lycéens 2010) Jérôme Ferrari (Prix Goncourt 2012), Eric Vuillard (Prix Goncourt 2017), Nicolas Mathieu (Prix Goncourt 2018) just to name a few. In total, Actes Sud publishes about 500 titles a year, including French and foreign literature, fiction and non-fiction, theatre, art and photography books, children books, comics and graphic books. Being first to publish Stieg Larsson's Millenium trilogy (more than 4 million copies sold), the Actes Noirs series has also made a name for itself, becoming quite a successful crime fiction trademark.

PAST MAIN PUBLICATIONS

The Scortas by Laurent Gaudé (2004), Prix Goncourt 2004. The Scorta family are met by indifference and general opprobrium in the small town in southern Italy where they live. Yet despite these testing circumstances, the family finds pride in its roots and discovers happiness despite the abject poverty.

Tell Them of Battles, Kings and Elephants by Mathias Enard (2010), Prix Goncourt des Lycéens 2010. Enard turns a few historical fragments and suggestions into a story of Michelangelo traveling to Istanbul to design a bridge over the Golden Horn.

The Sermon of the Fall of Rome by Jérôme Ferrari (2012), Prix Goncourt 2012. By turns wise, comic, dramatic, tragic and absurd, Ferrari's masterpiece reads like a Corsican One Hundred Years of Solitude, covering a century of intimate history with a dazzling, skewering precision.

The Order of the Day by Eric Vuillard (2017), Prix Goncourt 2017. This behind-the-scenes account of the manipulation, hubris, and greed that together led to Nazi Germany's annexation of Austria brilliantly dismantles the myth of an effortless victory and offers a dire warning for our current political crisis.

Their Children after Them by Nicolas Mathieu (2018), Prix Goncourt 2018. A portrait of teenagers growing up in a forgotten, hopeless region of France in the 1990s.

FICTION

Le Grand Nord-Ouest by Anne Marie Garat (2018).
Late 1930s, on the road to Yukon and Alaska. An adventuress flees California with her daughter and, braving myriad dangers, strikes out in pursuit of her ghosts on the Amerindian trails of the wild north-west.

77 by Marin Fouqué (2019). Since the beginning of term, the routine is always the same. He arrives at the bus stop early. But on this day the young narrator spends the entire day alone on the bench of the busshelter...

Atmore Alabama by Alexandre Civico (2019). On landing in Florida, he knows exactly where he will be going in his hire car: Atmore, a far-flung little town in deepest Alabama. He is clearly ravaged by an insurmountable grief and is impervious to any emotion but pain.

Critical Masses by Ronan Gouézec (2019, edited by Le Rouergue). That night the Bannecks - the father and his two sons - took a boat out for a spot of illegal fishing, as was their wont. The father was at the helm and his sons were diving for shellfish. But old Banneck had drunk too much and the boat never made it back to port.

Imprudence by Loo Hui Phang (2019). A young female photographer who lives on instinct, entirely wrapped up in her projects and her desires, learns of the death of her grandmother in Laos, her native country that she left at the age of one. She travels with her mother and older brother to be with the widowed grandfather.

La Murène by Valentine Goby (2019). Winter 1956: François is 22 years old. On this particular day, he finds himself in the middle of a field of snow. The truck in which he has been riding has broken down and they need to find help. He comes across another truck stuck in the snow and hauls himself up onto its metal roof, but suddenly he plunges into the void electrocuted and badly burnt.

Those Who Depart by Jeanne Benameur (2019). A handful of them come ashore on Ellis Island and with them the 20th century takes its first faltering steps along the path to liberty and happiness.

Zippo by Valentine Imhof (2019, edited by Le Rouergue). When they met, she was very young. He made her wear a black venetian mask, he called her Eva, he taught her to play with fire. He was the master of her emotions, of her will, of her suffering. He lost her. Wherever she is, wherever she is hiding, she is missing him, he is convinced of that.

NON-FICTION

Le Genre intraitable by Nadia Tazi (2018). This work presents a thoroughly original perspective on the 'unending crisis' in the Muslim world, analysing the political bankruptcy of Muslim countries in terms of a cult of virility.

Agroecology – A potential savior by Marc Dufumier and Olivier Le Naire (2019). At the age of twenty-two when still a student of agroecology, Marc Dufumier learned a traditional form of agriculture that respects both people and the environment from a community of illiterate women in Madagascar. In this series of interviews with Olivier Le Naire, he provides a scientific and clear demonstration of why and how agroecology offers a concrete and realistic response to many problems of the modern world.

Sauvés par la sieste by Brice Faraut (2019). The aim of this book is to help the general public understand how siestas work and the remarkable role they can play in overcoming the destructive effects on the brain and the body of a shortage of sleep like diabetes and cardiovascular disease - for a siesta is like a night's sleep in miniature.

Théorie de la bulle carrée by Sébastien Lapaque (2019). In November 2005, Sébastien Lapaque visited Anselme Selosse. He was struck by the mysterious images and the original metaphors that the winegrower used when describing his wine. Since taking over the Jacques-Selosse family vineyard in 1980, the winemaker has changed our perception of champagne, both in France and around the world.

AU DIABLE VAUVERT

publishing house, founded in October 2000 in Vauvert, Occitanie. by its actual managing director and editor Marion Mazauric. With authors such as David Foster Wallace, William Gibson, Neil Gaiman, Jeff Vandermeer, Irvine Welsh, Paolo Bacigalupi, and their French counterparts, Au diable vauvert publishes voices of our time. Most of our books are adapted into movies and our writers are famous for their cinematographic approach to storytelling, just like Thomas Gunzig, an award winning Belgian author, who was nominated for the Césars and the Golden Globes for his screenplay The Brand New Testament.

Au diable vauvert is an independent

Our current book-to-film projects includes the adaptation of a music road trip, the story of a modern mythical quest about the vintage guitar the Gibson Modern and the adaptation of the international bestseller The Reader of the 6.27 by Atlas Entertainment.

Urban but organic-committed house, hyperconnected but located far away from Paris, in the South of France, between vineyards, Au diable vauvert releases less than 25 books a year, including French and foreign fiction, documentaries, albums, history, young adults, poetry. In 2020, the company will celebrates 20 years of publications.

PAST MAIN PUBLICATIONS

Le Liseur du 6h27 (The Reader of the 6.27) by Jean-Paul Didierlaurent (2014). An original and feel-good debut novel, which renders a generous reflection on human relationships and an ode to simple life, love and literature. In a color evoking the cinema of Jean-Pierre Jeunet or Jean Meckert's workingclass plume, Jean-Paul Didierlaurent has written a debut novel that reveals the world of a remarkale writer, full of warmth and poetry, in which the most insignificant characters are crazy and extraordinary in their humanity, and literature the remedy to daily monotony.

Vintage by Grégoire Hervier (2016). A praise to the former years of rock'n roll and pop cultures! A young guitarist, passionately fond of instruments and an oddiobber at a reputable shop, is instructed to deliver an antique guitar to an eccentric British collector. Once there, in a manor beside the Loch Ness, he takes on the extraordinary mission to find the prototype of a mysterious and cursed guitar, the legendary Modern, assuming it ever actually existed. Five years of research and amazing erudition have conjured up a novel in vintage vein with a nod at the Phantom of the Opera as well as an incredible reverie to the beat of the American road movie: the artistic and technical origins of blues, rock'n'roll, heavy metal, and their guitars.

UITGEVERIJ DE BEZIGE BIJ

COMPANY PROFILE

De Bezige Bij (The Busy Bee) is one of the leading literary publishers in the Netherlands for both Dutch and translated literature, fiction, and non-fiction. Publishing House De Bezige Bij was set up illegally during WWII by a group of students in Utrecht who, led by Geert Lubberhuizen, financed their resistance activities under German occupation with a range of publications. It was officially established in December 1944, several months before the war ended. After the liberation of The Netherlands it moved to a building on the Van Miereveldstraat in Amsterdam as a cooperative publishing house. In these elegant premises the publishing house still resides and continues to go from strength to strength. De Beziae Bii consists of the following lists: 1. De Bezige Bij: literary and upmarket fiction and non-fiction 2. Thomas Rap: upmarket fiction and nonfiction, books on comedy and sports 3. Cargo: crime fiction, thrillers, commercial fiction and non-fiction. In December 2019 De Bezige Bij will be proud to celebrate their 75th anniversary.

Film producers interested in our stories can read many of our titles suitable to be filmed in foreign languages (English, French, German, Italian and so on).

FICTION

The Blessed Rita by Tommy Wieringa (2018). His whole life, Paul Krüzen has lived with his father in an old, haunted farmhouse, not far from the German border. Where once his father took care of him, now he takes care of his father. In those fifty years, they have seen their village change drastically. The world is on the move: the Chinese now run the bars and restaurants in their village, while Russians, Bulgarians and Poles have become a familiar presence. The Blessed Rita is an enchanting memento for those left behind.

Otmar's Sons by Peter Buwalda (2019). The book tells the story of a young Shell employee named Ludwig Smit, who, after visiting the illustrious Johan Tromp on the Siberian island of Sakhalin, finds himself stranded there during a snow storm. It's at that very moment, when investigative journalist Isabelle Orthel hands Tromp the lid to a Pandora's box, that his sensational career in the oil industry begins to teeter. Tromp – hedonist, alpha male, Shell's crown prince and in all regards Ludwig's exact opposite – misjudges his two visitors entirely.

Plenty of Time by Ronald Giphart (in prep. 2019). Their friendship was born during many evenings spent in their local pub. They knew that every day would bring something memorable. When the six men opened a beer brewery in the 1990s, they became business partners as well as friends. Twenty-five years later, they are on their way to a log cabin in Germany to spend one last weekend together before they sign the contract to sell their brewery.

NON-FICTION

The Burgundians by Bart Van Loo (2019). The book takes the reader on a journey through a thousand years of European history up to the time when the Seventeen Provinces arose and the Burgundian Empire came to an end. Bart Van Loo is unmatched in his ability to bring the powerfully evocative middle ages to life. The Burgundians is a whirlwind of a cultural history, an astonishing account of emerging cities, awakening individualism and dving knightly ideals, of schizophrenic kings, bold dukes and brilliant artists. While the Burgundian dukes forged the fragmented Low Countries into a unified whole through battles, marriages and reforms, they spurred artists like Klaas Sluter, Ian van Evck and Rogier van der Weyden to produce unforgettable works. Along the way, Bart Van Loo's equally thrilling and educational exploration of the middle ages develops into an impressive cultural history which is crying to be filmed.

Notes on a Murder by Peter Vermeersch (in prep. 2019). One morning Peter Vermeersch is called up for jury duty. The young man in the dock is accused of robbery and manslaughter. Together with the other members of the jury Vermeersch is confronted with questions about the true course of events, the rituals of the law and the suspect as a timid creature. This story provides a penetrating insight into violence and justice.

LATEST TITLES AVAILABLE FOR FILM ADAPTATION AT THE $76^{TH}$ VENICE INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL

FICTION

We hold the film/TV rights to many of the novels by Simonetta Agnello Hornby, including these below: The Marchesa (La zia marchesa) (2004); Boccamurata (2007):

There's Nothing Wrong With Lucy (Vento scomposto) (2009); The Nun (La monaca) (2010).

Other titles include the following:

All The Colours of The World (Tutti i colori del mondo) by Giovanni Montanaro (2012).

Send Me Life (Mandami tanta vita) by Paolo Di Paolo (2013). Freshly arrived in Turin from his Piedmontese province, Moraldo searches for himself, wondering about his vocation, his political orientation. Son of a simple shoe salesman, the young man dreams of becoming the equal of Piero, a student for whom he cultivates an admiration mingled with jealousy. At twenty-five Piero has already founded a magazine and is a publisher engaged in dangerous activity, outspokenly critical of Mussolini. Persuaded that Piero will make sense of his existence, Moraldo sends letters that however remain unanswered. Fate provides for the paths of the two men to cross again, in Paris, in February 1926.

Magari domani resto by Lorenzo Marone (2017). A number 1 bestseller in Italy throughout the spring of 2017, this novel has sold more than 100,000 copies. Luce is an honest and combative young woman, stuck in an existence dominated by a bigoted and unhappy mother. Until one day Luce is assigned the custody of a minor. Suddenly a wise and very special child enters her life, together with a globetrotting street artist and a swallow with no intention of migrating.

NON-FICTION

Senior Service by Carlo Feltrinelli (1999). Giangiacomo Feltrinelli was one of the most arresting characters of his generation, yet he died violently. Born into great wealth, he found himself equally attracted to great books and workers' rights. Despite the attentions of the KGB, Pasternak smuggled his manuscript out of the USSR to Feltrinelli, who then saw to it that the book was published worldwide, and the passionate editor's censor-duping correspondence with the besieged writer is relayed in this memoir.

Inside the Zhivago Storm by Paolo Mancosu (2013). A riveting account of the story of the first publication of Doctor Zhivago and of the subsequent Russian editions in the West. Exploiting the untapped resources of the Feltrinelli archives in Milan as well as several other private and public archives in Europe, Russia, and the USA, Mancosu reconstructs the relationship between Pasternak and Feltrinelli, the story of the Italian publication, and the pressure exercised on Feltrinelli by the Soviets and the Italian Communist Party to stop publication of the novel in Italy and in other countries. Within the context of the Cold War, Mancosu describes the hidden roles of the KGB and the CIA in the vicissitudes of the publication of the novel both in Italian and in the original Russian language.

I'll Have to Dance (Mi toccherà ballare) by Ottavia Casagrande and Raimonda Lanza di Trabia (2014). The astonishing story of Raimondo Lanza di Trabia, nobleman, soldier, diplomat and sportsman.

GIULIO EINAUDI EDITORE

COMPANY PROFILE

Since its foundation in 1933, Einaudi has been regarded as the most important cultural reference point in Italy and has maintained a constant reputation for excellence and quality, with editorial commitment and the discovery of artistic merit its hallmarks. Its catalogue includes more than 10.000 titles featuring all fictional (Literature - Theatre - Poetry - Italian and Foreign Classics) and non-fictional fields (Scientific -Literary and Historical Essays). Einaudi is Italy's second largest publisher, in terms of value, with a market share of 5.6%; a result that confirms the solidity of an editorial line based on a number of important guidelines that range from the valorisation of the catalogue to the continuous attention given to its authors policy, from the publication of new talent to a focus on all elements of the contemporary. One of the continuing strengths of Einaudi's production is foreign fiction, ranging from the consolidation of established writers such as Philip Roth, Ian McEwan, Paul Auster, Bret Easton Ellis, Anita Desai, Abraham Yehoshua and J.M. Coetzee to the discovery and affirmation of new authors. At the same time there is a constant attention to Italian literature that has allowed the company to remain at the forefront in terms of quality with the authors such as Natalia Ginzburg, Primo Levi, Cesare Pavese, Mario Rigoni Stern, and the new and highly personal voices of Niccolò Ammaniti, Alessandro Baricco, Marco Balzano, Gianrico Carofiglio, Paolo Cognetti, Donatella Di Pietrantonio, Carlo Lucarelli, Giancarlo De Cataldo, Paolo Giordano, Carlo Lucarelli, Valeria Parrella, Wu Ming.

Spice and Wolf by Isuna Hasekura (2013). The life of a traveling merchant is a lonely one, a fact with which Kraft Lawrence is well acquainted. Wandering from town to town with just his horse, cart, and whatever wares have come his way, the peddler has pretty well settled into his routine - that is, until the night Lawrence finds a wolf goddess asleep in his cart. Taking the form of a fetching girl with wolf ears and a tail, Holo has wearied of tending to harvests in the countryside and strikes up a bargain with the merchant to lend him the cunning of "Holo the Wisewolf" to increase his profits in exchange for taking her along on his travels. What kind of businessman could turn down such an offer? Lawrence soon learns, though, that having an ancient goddess as a traveling companion can be a bit of a mixed blessing. Will this wolf girl turn out to be too wild to tame?

Century Law by Muneki Yamada (2015). This highly suspenseful science-fiction novel is set in a future when humanity has discovered how to stop the aging process and yet must deal with the consequences. People face multiple national crises that must be overcome.

Lone Wolf's Issue by Yuko Yuzuki (2015). This hardboiled thriller features a rogue detective who has no qualms about bending the law if it will help reign in the battling gangs of his city.

Aokute Itakute Moroi by Yoru Sumino (2018). The most fresh youth novel by Yoru Sumino, the author of Let Me Eat Your Pancreas. "I've had a discipline that I must avoid encountering people as much as possible. And, in the spring of the first year in my university, I met Hisano Akiyoshi. She repeatedly made speeches with no point, shamelessly, so naturally classmates started staying away from her. But she was more straightforward than others. Inspired by her vision and passion, she and I established the syndicate 'MOAI'. Three years have passed since the establishment, and she, who used to speak about future goals together, is no longer here. Her lies stabbed my heart. 'I'll make lies she's left come true.' For me, that implies the rebellion of the world.' Sumino's work softly portraits ambiguous feelings appearing in the mind of teenagers, which they cannot express to others. He makes his position solid and fans are enthusiastic for his works, as representing feelings of youth.

MARCEL HARTGES LITERATUR-UND FILMAGENTUR

COMPANY PROFILE

The agency was founded by longstanding editor and publisher Marcel Hartges in Munich in January 2016. Ferdinand von Schirach, Alissa Walser, Ian Weiler, Volker Klüpfel & Michael Kobr, Albert Ostermaier, Andrea Sawatzki and Anne Gesthuvsen were among the first authors to join the agency. We represent authors of fiction, non-fiction books and screenplays. In addition to sending manuscripts to publishers in Germany and further afield, another key area of our work is in representing our clients' film and translations rights.

We cooperate with Kiepenheuer Bühnenvertrieb and various agencies abroad. Film, theatre as well as foreign rights play such an important role for us that we do not want to leave them to publishers as so-called "subsidiary rights". Marcel Hartges, born in Mönchengladbach, studied German, Spanish, philosophy and sociology in Bonn and Berlin. He worked as an editor and later as head of the paperback publishing house at Rowohlt Verlag. From 2006 to 2009 he was publisher of DuMont Literatur- und Kunstverlag, from 2009 to 2016 publisher of Piper Verlag. Hartges also worked for the first time as a producer at the filming of Ferdinand von Schirach's The Collini Case.

Authorised Happiness / SOS Bonheur

by Van Hamme, Desberg and Griffo (2017). Captain Carelli discovers that the well-run machinery of his dream society hides troubling secrets... When society pushes the ideals of equality to their breaking point, the result can easily become plain absurd, and the daydream can turn into nightmare!

Full Board by Jacky Schwartzmann (2018). A gigolò on the wane, a writer off the mark, a resort at a loss... Unlikely characters call for unlikely meetings! When Dino, kicked out by his sugar mama, gets stuck in a holiday resort, he has no idea his uptight and highbrow neighbor is a serial killer...

Lethal Lullaby by Ralph Meyer and Philippe Tome (2018). "Resentment is a prison you decide to share with your tormenter". Three broken destinies, three suspended lives, three souls motivated by hate and revenge... It can only end in blood.

Massif Central by Christian Oster (2018). A man leaves his girlfriend realizing he doesn't love her anymore. From that moment on, the shadow of another man, her first love, looms like a permanent threat above him. Is this feeling real or is he becoming insane?

The Snow Blanket (Le Manteau de neige) by Nicolas Leclerc (2020 postponed). Katia was a discreet yet normal teenager, but when her catatonic grandmother suddenly wakes up and cuts her grandfather throat to death, she is traumatized and starts being haunted by terrifying visions. Only deeply buried family secrets may explain what really happened...

NON-FICTION

Stony the Road we Trod by Sylvain Pattieu (2017). On July 31, 1972, pushed to the limit by decades of racial segregation, a young couple of Black African Americans hijacks a plane to reach the Black Panthers of Algeria.

Black Out by Cécile Delarue (2018). 18 black women attacked and raped. 2 survived. 1 killer: the Grim Sleeper. "NHI: No Humans Involved": the cynical label used to classify these invisible cases. Because who cares about black victims in the US of the 90's, more racist and segregated that ever?! A true story.

Guantanamo Kid by Tubiana and Franc (2018). The true journey from horror to hope of Mohammed El Gorani, arrested under false pretenses at only 14 years old and imprisoned at Guantanamo for almost 10 years. An unforgettable tale told with a unique voice and a moving sense of humor. A reminder of the need for more humanity.

Le fil de nos vies brisees by Cécile Hénion (2019). Aleppo, one city, hundreds of lives destroyed. 15 incredible destinies as told by one of the best international war reporter of our time. 15 true stories of insanity, absurdity, hope, love and resilience.

They Killed Mister H by Maurin Picard (2019). An exceptional investigation that sheds light on a death that has always remained in the dark: that of the General Secretary of the UN, Dag Hammarskjöld. The names and faces of his assassins, some of them French, are finally revealed.

MICHAEL GAEB LITERARY AGENCY

COMPANY PROFILE

Michael Gaeb Literary Agency, a full-service agency based in Berlin, was founded in 2003. We represent German-writing and Latin-American authors. We are handling foreign rights and film representation worldwide for the most part of our authors as well as German representation for a selection of Italian, French and Hispanic publishers and agencies.

As primary agents, we are engaged in every aspect of our authors' careers, from the editorial work of developing a book proposal or editing a fiction or non-fiction manuscript to negotiating book deals, assisting with strategic career decisions and helping to promote the books once they are published.

Our authors cover a broad spectrum of literary fiction, commercial fiction (thrillers and crime, women's fiction and historical novels, as well as children's fiction), popular and serious non-fiction (in the field of narrative non-fiction, philosophy, politics, current affairs, history and art). In our international work, our greatest achievements have lately been with philosophical titles from Germany. Regarding film rights, we've recently closed very nice deals for our Latin-American literary fiction authors.

Andrea Vogel joined the agency in 2014. She is primarily responsible for the foreign rights. She is also handling film & television rights, as well as the representation of our Italian clients on the German market and helping with finding new authors.

NON-FICTION

An Underground Life. Memoirs of a Gay Jew in Nazi Berlin by Gad Beck (2004). Berlin, World War II: Gad Beck manages to evade the Nazis and lives illegally underground. Coming of age as a gay man during the war, he helps organize a Jewish youth group, free friends from the Gestapo, and maintains a series of romantic relationships. When anti-Jewish policies begin to be enforced, Beck helps set up resistance efforts to hide refugees, smuggle food and drugs into labor and concentration camps. Actively homosexual from an early age, Beck argues forthrightly that his sexuality and love for men infuses most of his life and gives him the ability to fight for his own life and for others.

Time of the Magicians by Wolfram Eilenberger (2018). International Bestseller, published in 22 countries. A vivid History of Ideas about four German philosophers during the ten years following World War I. We accompany Ludwig Wittgenstein to the village school in rural Austria, promenade with Walter Benjamin through the arcades of Paris, listen with Martin Heidegger to the whispering pine trees surrounding his hut in the Black Forest, and commute with Ernst Cassirer between Berlin and Hamburg. Along the way, marriages are made, lovers buried, hashish is smoked, and wood chopped. 1919-1929 mark the early highpoint of all schools of thought shaping philosophy to this day, including the critique of technology, crisis of democracy, culture wars, religious fundamentalism, discourses of sustainability.

NEFELI PUBLISHING

COMPANY PROFILE

Nefeli Publishing is based in Athens, Greece and it is currently one of the most dynamically emerging pushling houses in the Greek market. Since its founding in 1979, it has published more than 1600 titles, introducing writers and works of seminal importance in most subject areas. By maintaining long standing dedicated title series with an emphasis on subject depth and thoroughness, Nefeli has been a major contributor to the promotion of literature and academia in Greece and is reputed for its quality, both in terms of production values and in regard to the choice and editing of the texts.

Our catalogue of translated literature includes many internationally acclaimed authors such as Marquez, Pessoa, Joyce, Cummings, McEwan, Morrison, Unsworth, Nabokov, Gombrowicz, Kharms, Aragon, Vian, Greene, Steinbeck, Brecht, Tranströmer, Ashbery, and Fallaci. Among our classics series are authors like Shakespeare, Kafka, Rilke, Blake, Flaubert, Goethe, Gogol, Molière, Twain, Racine, Strindberg, Rostand, Büchner, Calderón de la Barca, Goldoni, Lessing, Gorki, Heym, Shelley, de Maupassant, Marquis de Sade, Thackeray, Schnitzler and the Goncourt brothers – beautifully translated and carefully edited. Our philosophy is one of nurturing the fundamental values of publishing, whilst making the necessary adaptations in order to face future challenges in an ethical and sustainable manner. Our focus on beautiful typography and good design makes our projects stand out and underlines their importance. Our central focus this year will be the Short Form in Fiction and the Historical Non-fiction.

PAST MAIN PUBLICATIONS

Focussing on the short form, magic realism and contemporary fiction: Joke by Yiannis Palavos (2012). Palavos was born in 1980 and ranks among the most acclaimed and best selling short story collections published in Greece in recent years. It is one of the few short story collections to have won both major prizes in Greece: the National Book Award - the highest national literary honor - and the award given by the prestigious Anagnostis Literary Review. Joke comprises 17 stories influenced mainly by magic realism, dirty realism and the rich Greek short story tradition that highlights rural life. Many of the stories in the collection unfold in the backwater towns of rural Greece, while others take place in Athens and Thessaloniki, Greece's largest cities. All 17 stories are characterized by their sparing and unadorned language, their bitter sense of humor and the tenderness of their characters.

to experiment, however modestly, and let language do the work we can't do any other way, at least not yet. All Stories by Gabriel García Márquez (2014). Magic realism at its best, by the biggest maestro of all. Nobel Prize winner Márquez is "the most popular and perhaps the best writer in Spanish since Cervantes". What really is at stake here is a psychological suppleness which is able to inhabit unsentimentally the daytime world. We published his short stories in Greece in small collections back in the 1980's and 3 years ago we completely revised the translations and published one big volume, which is popular in the Greek market ever since.

Palavos's stories give us the excuse

FICTION

Phihellinon by Vicky Tselepidou (2018). This is the new novella of the Greek Academy Award laureate Vicky Tselepidou. The mother: Mother-Church, Mother-Greece, Mother-Europe, Mother-Insecurity, a Nation getting older by itself. A modern, fascinating narrative on the problems of Greek family and the Philhellenic views of the others — our most own strangers.

The Child by Yiannis Palavos (2019). The new short story collection of the highly acclaimed young author Yiannis Palavos was published in April and has sold over 4.000 copies in 3 months. Loved both by critics and readers, the author confirms with his second book his charisma and mastery of language and form, praised for his first book Joke. With a modest style, a language that serves ideally his narrative spirit, carefully sculptured in every detail, fast paced and with an exemplary use of deduction. Twelve short stories, sung with a soulful lament at the edge of logic and dream. Twelve stories that will hunt you, an ideal material for short film and VR.

The Land of Anger by Christos Chrissopoulos (2019). This is the new novella by the internationally acclaimed Christos Chrissopoulos (his novella The Parthenon Bomber was recently published by Penguin). The book was first published in France under the title Terre de colère and its theatrical adaptation was performed in France in 2018 and 2019. As years go by, the anger rises, it passes from parent to child, like a holly stock it grows deeper from generation to generation... Of all sentiments, anger is most contagious. There was a time when anger was the privilege of the big city centres, when it stayed behind hermetically closed doors, when anger was bad — now, it is everywhere. A contemporary story of high tension.

The Loneliness of Dogs by Panos Tsiros (2019). This is the new short story collection of Panos Tsiros (b. 1970). Short, slightly strange stories about the loneliness of people, dogs and other pets.

NON-FICTION

1919 — The Suspended Step to Asia Minor (2019). One of the most successful history books of 2019 in the Greek market, it fully covers the story of one of the most ambitious military campaigns in the history of contemporary Greece, that ended in a great disaster with over 1 Million fugitives. The narrative is short and simple and it covers the events and causes objectively and thoroughly. The Greco-Turkish War of 1919–1922 was fought between Greece and the Turkish National Movement during the partitioning of the Ottoman Empire after World War I between May 1919 and October 1922. It is known as the Western Front of the Turkish War of Independence in Turkey and the Asia Minor Campaign or the Asia Minor Catastrophe in Greece.

La contessa di ricotta (Countess Butterfingers)

by Milena Agus (2009). Countess Butterfingers' heart is so big it's about to burst. She has two sisters, one beautiful and the other lonely. They all live in a crumbling aristocratic palazzo in an ancient area of Cagliari where rich and poor are mixed. When her eyes meet those of her shady neighbour she realizes that even wonderful surprises can break your heart. A story of rare and simple beauty about the nature of love and passion told with warmth, humour and deep insight. An international bestseller published in 25 languages.

Due di tutto e una valigia (Two of Everything and a Suitcase) by Mila Venturini (2010). In a hospital, waiting for her father to be operated, twenty-year-old Sara looks back at those days when she and her brother went through their parents' divorce. A drama turns out to be brilliant family comedy as the kids discover the advantages of the situation: infinite possibilities of transgression!

Amori comunisti (Communist Love) by Luciana Castellina (2018). Speaking of the loves between Nazim Hikmet and Münevver Andaç, between Argyrò Polikronaki and Nikos Kokulis and between Sylvia and Robert Thompson, the author builds a story interwoven with real memories and personal encounters, around the three couples from Turkey, Greece and the United States. Complicated lives with incredible loves that traveled through the second half of the last century united by the fact of being watched and spied on, in an atmosphere of great difficulty and danger.

La lettrice di Čhecov (Čhecov's Reader) by Giulia Corsalini (2018). Leaving her dying husband back in Kiev, Nina emigrates to Italy to support her daughter's studies and here she meets a professor who helps her transform her love for literature into a job. Pursuance of happiness versus sense of duty, familial bonds versus reasons of the heart. A novel that celebrates the power of literature to change a person's life and destiny.

L'estate muore giovane (Summer Dies Young)

by Mirko Sabatino (2018). A journey into the closed universe of a provincial town, with horrors nestled in the folds of an apparent stability, as unstoppable as the end of youth awaiting the three boys who try to fight back with their uncompromising friendship. A story that touches upon universal themes such as the roots of evil in human beings, a well-built rhythm through the succession of scenes and a crescendo of events in an epic setting. In the shortlist for the Bookciak award at the 2018 Venice Film Festival and winner of the Segafredo Zanatti award - A book, a film. Published also in Spain and France.

Gli Insaziabili (Insatiable) (2019). Eight Italian authors and eight Chinese authors around the double red line represented by Eros and Food: themes that deeply concern two distant cultures, yet full of fertile land for comparison, knowledge and enrichment for each culture. The book, published both in Italy and in China, is a game of mirrors, joints and visions on two topics that are governed by rituals and pleasure.

PRESSES DE LA CITÉ

D'autres viendront (Other People Will Come) by Richard Boidin (2019). 2023. Three Africans stand accused of crimes against humanity. There are the accomplices of an African-American doctor who is alleged to be the author of an explosive tract - The Manifesto for Life. Hélène Morel, whose mixed-race grandson Julien has disappeared in the heart of Africa, is attending the trial. Five months earlier, Julien Morel, a United Nations employee, received a photo from one Joseph Klein which prompted him to travel to the heart of the equatorial forests in the hope of finding alive his mother and sister, who had officially been declared victims of the Rwandan genocide. The trial and Julien's disappearance become inextricably linked. In the heart of Equatorial Africa, along the enigmatic Congo River, D'autres viendront is a powerful novel. l'ai dû rêver trop fort (I Must Have Dreamt Too Deeply) by Michel Bussi (2019). Via four stopovers and a game of mirrors between 1999 and 2019, Michel Bussi's latest novel blends emotion and suspense, as it builds to a remarkable final twist in the tale. This top-drawer mystery story by Michel Bussi is, as usual, replete with human interest, emotion and universal appeal.

Les Gardiennes du silence (The Guardians of the Silence) by Sophie Endelys (2019). One island, two monasteries, three murders, four centuries of an occult order composed of mute women... Chloe, an ordinary young woman, archivist, will face an incredible adventure, and her own past. A very tasty, and original domestic thriller.

BELFOND

Je t'aime (I Love You) by Barbara Abel (2018). To lie by omission, merely out of love. And to become by proxy the worst of murderers. The fates of four women collide, entangle and rip apart. Women who are often better at hating than loving. Because in Barbara Abel's novels, nothing is more akin to love

Je voudrais que la nuit me prenne (I want the night to take me) by Isabelle Desesquelles (2018). A dizzying and poetic immersion in the universe of childhood, Je voudrais que le nuit me prenne tells of the dangers of happiness. Against a backdrop of troubled feelings shot through with rays of joy, Isabelle Desesquelles explores the fragile bonds which connect us to our loved ones and the formidable power of memories. A deeply moving novel which is a celebration of memory, the only antidote to the loss of happiness. Prix Femina des lycéens 2018.

Regression by Fabrice Papillon (2019). Vannina is a gendarmerie captain in Corsica. She discovers a slaughterhouse. Among the remains strewn across the floor of the cave is a thorax out of which the heart has been ripped and a severed skull containing a cooked brain. Meanwhile, the police find the missing heart at a famous prehistoric site on the island, as if it were an offering to ancestral warriors. The situation rapidly spirals out of control: similar crime scenes are discovered at other prehistoric sites in Spain, at Stonehenge in England and even in Germany... A gripping scientific thriller by the author of Le Dernier Hyver.

PLON

L'Expérience de la pluie (The Experience of the Rain) by Clélie Avit (2019). Arthur is 6 years old. He lives with his mother. Camille, in a bubble she created just for them. That way, the world's noise, violence and people can't reach them. But one evening, as he's leaving the office, Aurélien crosses their path. A luminous novel; the endearing characters, at once strong and weak, are just like us.

On ne meurt pas d'amour (We Can't Die of Love) by Géraldine Dalban-Moreynas (2019). A man and a woman live in the same building, but in a different apartment. They are both part of a couple, but with different people. One day, they bump into each other for the first time one Sunday in November at the street entrance. It is love at first sight. And it hurts a lot. Later on, they agree that it was doubtless at that instant that it all began... A heartbreaking love story for a strong first novel.

Pour que le jour de votre mort soit le plus beau de votre vie (May the Day You Die Be the Most Beautiful Day of your Life) by Lionel Abbo (2019). The chaotic life of Adolph Goldstein, a thirtysomething Jew who became an undertaker out of opportunism, and who gradually drifts towards practices that are ever-less conventional but far more exciting. Exhilarating!

I Visconti by Daniela Pizzagalli (2019). The queen of historical biographies and one of the leading experts in Medieval and Renaissance History is back with the story of the Visconti family, a story of betrayals and redemption, conflicts and intrigue, power and poisons, a story which lacks nothing in comparison to the most celebrated dynasties, from the Medicis to the Borgias. This book tells how they managed to audaciously arise in a completely fragmented peninsula, and how they created the most powerful Italian State of the time.

The Law of the Sea by Annalisa Camilli (2019). NGOs and human rights: sea taxis or the last border of civilization? A heartfelt and engaging journey about the routes taken by migrants, the boats that rescue them, the stories of the protagonists, and the central factory of false news that feeds the anti-NGO rhetoric of the sovereigntist right wing all over Europe.

FICTION

Constantinople by Baptiste Touverey (2019) Rome meets House of Cards in a gripping story of power, love, and betrayal. 7th century A.D.: as the Roman Empire falls into ruin, Constantinople remains the impregnable and thriving hub of power and ambition. Amidst the decadence and instability, two rebel soldiers, Nicetas and Heraclius, are on a mission fraught with mystery to overthrow Phocas the Usurper. But to become the new emperors, they not only need to win a battle, they must also win a young woman's heart. Rife with power struggles, rivalries, and conspiracies set against a historical backdrop, this is a modern, stunning, and enthralling debut.

Ghost in Love by Marc Levy (2019). From the international bestselling author Marc Levy, a comedy in the tradition of Frank Capra and Billy Wilder, that makes you want to believe in the unbelievable. What would you do if a ghost suddenly appeared in your living room, and asked you to do the unthinkable—so that he could fulfill his last wish? Would you be ready to drop everything and pack your bags, no matter how crazy it seemed? And how about if this ghost was your father...? Thomas, a piano virtuoso, embarks on a whirlwind adventure, with the ghost of his father: a life-changing journey to make up for lost time and a chance encounter...

In Between Days by Nataël Trapp (2019). In Nataël Trapp's brilliant, page-turning novel, the philosophical question of "free will versus destiny" takes on a gripping, life-or-death urgency. "In less than an hour, I will be dead. It's almost midnight, and I've done everything in my power – everything – not to end up here, in this place, at this time. The shadowy lake rippling in front of me, the pine trees shuddering in the wind, the stars scattered across the sky: they're all proof that I've failed. Every second I expect to hear a soft footstep in the pine needles, the snap of a branch, some indication that I'm not alone. That I'm being watched. I'm going to die – and the worst part is, it won't be for the first time."

Kentucky by Simon Van Booy (2019). Carol was thirteen when her daddy lost her in a game of cards. A year later– pregnant and with nowhere to go – she is taken in by Bessie and Martha, who run a secret refuge for 'lost' women. 50 years on – in the same small town– Carol's thirteen-year-old grandson rides his BMX and watches wrestling– mesmerized by 80s' excess, while his community fights to stay employed in factories and on farms. Kentucky is the epic saga of one family's struggle to survive in the rural Unites States.

The Woman in the Dark by Raphael Montes (2019). This is a stunning new psychological thriller from the Brazilian bestselling author. When Victoria's terrible past resurfaces, she knows there are only three people she can trust. The problem? One of them is a killer.
